

The bottom section of the page contains several columns of text in a highly stylized, possibly cursive or shorthand script. The text is arranged in a structured manner, with some lines appearing to be headings or labels for the columns above. The script is dense and difficult to decipher, but it appears to be organized into a table or a series of related sections.