

A surrealist illustration of a cat's face, specifically resembling the character Sylvester the Cat, framed by a complex, layered, white, shell-like structure. The structure is composed of numerous overlapping, curved, and pointed segments that create a sense of depth and movement, reminiscent of a nautilus shell or a series of overlapping petals. The cat's face is positioned in the upper right quadrant, with its yellow eyes and small orange nose clearly visible. The background is a solid black, which makes the white structure and the cat's features stand out. In the top left corner, there is a small, stylized signature that reads "J. B. B. B."